

A news report from Dallas on this page yesterday informed the local public that the Corps of Engineers still thinks one big dam on Little River is a better flood controller than six small ones.

In a statement to representatives of Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma, gathered for the Dallas conference, Louis W. Prentiss, Southwest division chief of the army engineers, said:

"I have studied the building of a number of dams, and my recommendation is going to be that the original Millwood dam can provide the protection needed on the lower Red river below Fulton."

So the engineering experts are committed beyond doubt to the big Millwood project, a dam to be constructed west of Saratoga, this county, creating a vast reservoir running clear into southeast Oklahoma. Its cost is estimated at approximately 40 million dollars—two and a half times that of the Narrows dam near Murrellsboro.

Now congress authorized the Millwood dam in 1946. The Star urged the project then, as indeed we have always advocated far-flung river valley improvements—regardless of geography or politics. And yet I am going to say here and now we have no business advocating, or permitting, the building of the Millwood dam today.

What was written in 1946 was with due consideration for world conditions and the state of the United States treasury at that time. But 1951 is a tragically different story.

I am not going to bedevil our foreign policy by saying what is absolutely untrue—that we are spending so much money abroad that we can't afford to build any more dams at home.

The real truth is this: Our politically shiftless government in Washington is putting so many people on the payroll that it doesn't have any money left for domestic public work.

It is sound editorial policy to remind the people that in time of financial crisis you can have either political jobs or public works but not both you've got to choose. And perhaps a knockdown drag-out fight to halt the Millwood project here at home will wake up our people to the national bankruptcy that lurks around the corner.

Show me where the government is willing to get rid of 40 million dollars' worth of domestic payroll and I'll allow that the Millwood project is feasible.

But as long as Harry S. Truman follows his present policy of making taxation prohibitive and dollars worthless I am going to fight the Millwood dam—as a local editor conscious of the fact his first responsibility is to the take-home payroll and living standards of the employed classes.

Washington is now wholly mad. And until the people are jarred into bringing financial law and order to the national treasury there will be no more dams—either here or elsewhere.

The heartbreak of all this is that Millwood's construction would be the biggest thing ever happened to Hope. But the price—a people unable to pay for their daily food—is terrifying.

All we can do for the present is to maintain our advantage with the Corps of Engineers. They want one big dam—not six small ones. That means Millwood. But Millwood will never be built while the people tolerate financial sabotage.

Police 'Kidnap' a Young Baby

Philadelphia July 28 — (AP) — Mrs. Anna Di Bona, 22, dashed from a courtroom. "My baby," she screamed. "She's been kidnapped."

Police men on duty at city hall calmed her down a bit and listened to her tearful account of testifying at a trial and leaving her eight-month-old daughter, Donna, asleep in a coach in the hall.

"Oh," said one of the policemen, "that baby."

He escorted her to the missing persons bureau where they found Donna changing baby talk with a group of burly policemen.

And that is how police solved yesterday the mystery of the baby in the city hall corridor.

Evans Quits Tigers, Gehring Takes Over

Detroit, July 28 — (AP) — William G. (Billy) Evans, general manager and executive vice-president of the Detroit Tigers, resigned today as his ball club was staggering through its worst season since he took over in December, 1948.

Charlie Gehring, one time Tiger star second baseman, will take over the vice president's duties October 1.

Evans said he would leave the ball club at the end of the season. Gehring will have the title only of vice president but will take over Evans general manager duties at that time, said Owner Walter O. Briggs.

Boll Weevil to Be Topic of Farm Meet Here

Cotton insects present now or that may be expected in this year's cotton will be considered at the T. S. McDavitt farm east of Hope on highway 67 Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock announced County Agent Oliver L. Adams this morning.

Gordon Barnes, Extension entomologist of the University of Arkansas, will be at the McDavitt farm. Mr. Barnes, as entomologist, advises with cotton producers, county agents, vocational agriculture teachers, insecticide dealers and other interested individuals on insect problems over the state of Arkansas.

At this date boll weevils are under control on most Hempstead farms. Boll worms are working in some cotton fields doing considerable damage to squares and young bolls. When silking corn is not available, the boll worm moth lay eggs on cotton. Boll worms reach their peak of destruction in the last half of August and early September. The worms present now are second generation and will mature if not killed in about three weeks. The resting stage of about two weeks is then spent in the soil. The third brood might then be expected. No red spider have been reported this season in Hempstead county. The use of organic insecticides favors the development of boll worms and red spiders.

The McDavitt farm cotton is early squaring or with two weeks or older bolls. The cotton is ideal for the Tuesday Cotton insect meeting. As this is the only such meeting planned at this time all cotton producers and interested individuals are invited to be in attendance.

Southerners Eye 1952 Politics

Washington, July 28 — (AP) — Southern Democrats in congress are watchfully awaiting any belated move by President Truman as the signal for a political finish the fight in 1952.

All Mr. Truman has to do is to say to word about civil rights or to criticize them openly, and the political firing on Fort Sumpter will begin.

Some Dixie leaders evidently view a statement last week by Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) inviting to southerners to leave to party as the first shot in a battle they now believe Mr. Truman is planning to make against them.

Humphrey was the leader in a move to strengthen to civil rights plank at the 1948 Democratic convention. He succeeded and some of the southern delegates walked out.

The central point of controversy between the President and the southerners has been Mr. Truman's proposal for a fair employment practices commission (FEPC). It would be charged with preventing race, creed or color discrimination in job hiring.

This is the closest approach to a frontal attack on the race segregation practiced throughout the South and is regarded by many southerners as the opening wedge for abolition of segregation.

On the civil rights issue, Mr. Truman has been... Continues on Page Two

Nine in Dope Ring Are Arrested

New York, July 28 — (AP) — Federal authorities early today arrested eight men and a woman described as members of a $3,000,000 a year French-Italian counterfeiting and dope ring.

Deported Vice King Charles "Lucky" Luciano was named as head of the Italian link of the alleged 19-member smuggling combine by assistant U. S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan, who added:

"This is the largest Italian-French smuggling ring ever to come to the attention of the district attorney's office."

Seven of the men were arrested early today after seizure of bogus money with a face value of $100,000, delivered to an undercover agent last night in a midtown Manhattan hotel. Authorities said the bundle of fake 10 and 20 dollar bills, delivered in a cardboard suitcase by two men, was to be exchanged for $22,000 in real currency.

The seven, were held in a total of $450,000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Edward McDonald, who set a hearing for August 10.

At the arraignment, Assistant U. S. Attorney Eugene F. Roth said:

"These men are here on charges involving the importing of narcotics. They represent one of the largest conspiracies in the illegal drug trade ever to come to our notice. This is the first time we have found counterfeiting connected with the drug traffic."

Roth added that the ring has been under investigation for several months.

The seven, taken to the federal house of detention, were identified as:

Anthony Joseph Martello, 51, of Astoria, Queens, Salvatore Shillitani, 42, of Manhattan, Salvatore Messasama, 51, Jean Legot, John Sperandio, Ralph Cianchetti and Carmelo Sansone.

Martello and Shillitani were held in $100,000 bail each, charged with possession and sale of counterfeit U. S. currency, violation of the federal narcotics laws and conspiracy to violate the federal narcotics laws.

The others held in $50,000 bail each, were charged with conspiracy and violation of the federal narcotics laws.

Later, an authoritative source announced the arrest of another man and a woman, with both scheduled to be arraigned later today.

Meanwhile, a warrant was issued for a ninth man, Joseph Orsini, already in custody on Ellis Island awaiting deportation on another charge.

The nine other members of the gang, still being sought, were not identified.

Roth said Martello and Shillitani were the two men who appeared at the hotel with the suitcase full of house bills.

Kaplan described Sperandio as "an international criminal, and connected with the Mafia (Sicilian Black Hand) organization."

Kaplan estimated the ring's yearly "take" from drugs and fake bills at $3,000,000 a year.

Walker Hearing Now in Progress

Washington, July 28 — (AP) — The president of the minor leagues today called in the manager of a Southern association baseball team and a league umpire to hear their views in a red-hot baseball argument.

George Trautman, the final word in the minor leagues, says he will try to make a decision "as soon as humanly possible" after listening to their sides of the story.

The hearing is a result of an appeal by Dixie Walker, manager of the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern association.

Walker was suspended for 90 days and fined $100 for causing forfeiture of an association game between his club and the Mobile team on June 29.

Charles Hurth, president of the association, upheld Umpire Paul Roth's decision in the disputed issue.

Red Doublecross Accusation Is Not Official

Washington, July 28 — (AP) — The defense department has washed the official label off a briefing officer's virtual accusation that the Communists are framing a double-cross in Korea, but has not denied the officer's accuracy.

And high authorities at the Pentagon said they were unable to explain another major puzzle that developed yesterday — a statement by their chief, Secretary of Defense Marshall, that the United States plans to have 400,000 American troops in Europe in 1952.

That is nearly twice as many as previously indicated by Marshall, who has said six full divisions would be the American contribution to Europe's defense. His figure yesterday included 60,000 airmen.

Secretary Marshall was testifying before the senate foreign relations committee in support of the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign economic and military aid program.

About the same time yesterday morning, newsmen stepped into the bureau of the army's briefing officer, expecting the usual off-the-record background talk on how things are going in Korea.

Instead, the spokesman announced the conference would be on the record, and began reading from a prepared typewritten sheet.

He let it be known — without identifying the unit — that one good-sized United Nations combat unit had been withdrawn from the battle area and sent back to Japan. This was the first hint of such a move. All previous reports had been that U. N. forces in Korea were organized at full strength for further combat, if necessary.

The officer went on: "On May 16 the Chinese Communists launched a major offensive. By May 23 the Communist effort was broken and the Eighth Army moved immediately to counter offensive. This Continued on Page Two the gentler they get," he said. "If you aren't afraid of them, they aren't afraid of you. They're like big dogs."

"Once I brought an old lady out here and she wanted to know how I kept them so gentle. I told her they were like women. If a woman has got a fur coat and you feed her regular and treat her nice, it isn't too hard to get along with her. Same way with a Buffalo."

But I was glad when we left the herd and drove over toward the Brahmallo, who graze apart from the Buffalo.

"They're just like most relatives," Pete said. "The further apart they are the better they get along."

They gleamed shiny fat in the hot July sun, and they had a Brahmallo cow body and a kind of Buffalo head.

"Where's the fur?" I asked feeling cheated.

"Well, you know, it's shed now — being summer," said Pete, and I felt really silly. "But in the winter they look like big black toms. When it gets below zero, they don't shiver or weight or hump up behind a fence post like ordinary cattle to try to get away from the wind. They're out running foot races. The cold just don't bother them."

Pete has spent nine stubborn years developing the Brahmallo. He thinks it is more efficient than the ordinary white-faced steer because he says it can protect itself better from cold, requires less winter feed, and can grow as much as much flesh on cheap range grass as a steer fattened on expensive corn.

As we drove away one big Brahmallo steer lumbered after the car eager for more cookies from Pete's hand.

And Pete, who can tell each of his animals better than the average person can separate and recognize people, looked back at his strange herd and said rather defensively:

"Nobody but a cripple would fool with them — not really knowing where he was going."

And then the pride that makes Pierre Rosander the stubborn pioneer he is came out — in a quite brag.

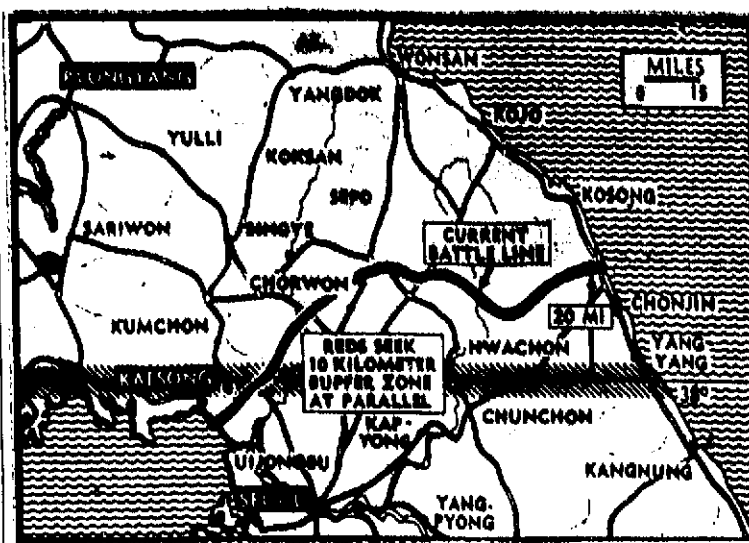

"I probably got the poorest ranch in the world — 1,000 acres of mostly sagebrush," he said, and a grin split his face like an ax stroke in a weathered tree.

"When I plowed up part of it to raise some wheat, a neighbor bet me a hundred dollars I wouldn't get a crop in 10 years. Well, now, just look at it there. My third straight crop — and the best yet."

Pete says he isn't really sure what he's doing — but he's going to go on doing it.

"The longer you're around them, the gentler they get," he said. "If you aren't afraid of them, they aren't afraid of you. They're like big dogs."

"Once I brought an old lady out here and she wanted to know how I kept them so gentle. I told her they were like women. If a woman has got a fur coat and you feed her regular and treat her nice, it isn't too hard to get along with her. Same way with a Buffalo."

COMMUNISTS WANT "BUFFER ZONE"—Map shows problem under discussion at Kaesong peace conference. The Communists are known to want a 10 kilometer (6 1/2 miles) "buffer zone" somewhere along the 38th parallel, which would force a UN withdrawal of up to 20 miles. The UN is expected to seek a cease-fire line more related to the current battle line. The present front, anchored along a chain of mountains and the shortest distance across the peninsula, offers UN forces a line easier to defend than the 38th parallel. (NEA Telephoto)

Hope Flight Leader's Group Destroys Enemy Machines, Stores in Korean Warfare

35th Fighter-Interceptor wing, Korea—During a recent dive bombing, rocketing and strafing mission north-west of Chorwon, in the central sector of Korea, six enemy trucks were destroyed, two damaged, two warehouses were destroyed and four were damaged by a flight of three Fifth Air Force F-51 Mustangs of the 35th Fighter-Interceptor wing.

The flight leader, Major Frank C. Malone of 200 West 13th St., Hope, Arkansas, said "I got the first truck and it went up in flames immediately after I hit it. The trucks we got were scattered all over the draw."

One of his wingmen, Major Daniel J. Noble of 23 Paper Street, Westfield, Mass., commented, "I hit a truck loaded with fuel. That started a fire that covered half the mountain."

His other wingman, Captain Herbert L. Raggs of 1228 West Millette, San Antonio, Texas, told of hitting two caves located in the side of a mountain. He said, "We put some of our rockets into the mouths of the caves. There were numerous vehicle tracks leading into them and we got some very good rocket hits."

Noble agreed and added, "Any trucks that might have been in those caves won't be going anywhere."

The three pilots were part of a nine plane flight of this tactical support wing of the Fifth Air Force that had bombed several gun positions with good results and then had split up on three armed reconnaissance flights.

Washington — (AP) — President Truman has indicted Russia for sending large quantities of modern military equipment to satellites and cited these preparations or aggression:

1. Armed forces in Bulgaria, Rumania, and Hungary "far greater than those allowed under the peace treaties they signed in 1947."

2. Rumania's recent order of the inhabitants out of a stretch of land 30 miles wide along the Yugoslav border.

"Bulgaria and Hungary have done the same thing," he said. "Military preparations have been going on in those zones along the border."

3. The flow of new equipment from Russia to the North Koreans and Chinese Communists.

4. Heavy concentrations of Russian air, land and sea forces in the Russian provinces along the Manchurian border, across from Japan, and across from Alaska."

Mr. Truman said he is dedicated to the building up of such armed strength in the free world that "the Kremlin will have to drop its plans for aggression and subversion."

Although the President slammed hard at critics of the administration policy, he named no names. But he said:

"Don't let yourselves be confused by smearers and slanderers. There are three things I want you to remember:

"First, this country is on the right track in foreign affairs. We have a goal — and that is peace. We have a way to reach that goal — and that is the middle way between world war on one side and surrender to communism on the other."

"Second, we are making progress toward that goal. The growing defenses of this country, the increasing strength and unity of the free nations, the set-back to aggression in Korea — all these show the progress we are making."

"Third, we are making progress toward that goal. The growing defenses of this country, the increasing strength and unity of the free nations, the set-back to aggression in Korea — all these show the progress we are making."

Harriman Sees Way to Solve Iran Problem

London, July 28 — (AP) — Wm. Averell Harriman flew in from Tehran today and told newsmen he thought the Iranian oil crisis could be solved if Britain agrees to Iran's proposals for reopening negotiations.

"I am hopeful that proposals that the Iranian government have made will form the basis of the two governments getting together," he said. "I am personally quite confident that if negotiations can be re-established that a satisfactory solution could be worked out."

Harriman, President Truman's international trouble-shooter, has been in Tehran trying to bring Iran and Britain together to discuss the dispute over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's properties.

Last Tuesday the Iranian government through Harriman, offered for the first time to discuss the crisis with the British government. A previous negotiation attempt by directors of the billion-dollar company broke down after one meeting.

Harriman will talk today with Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Gaitskell.

"They are asking quite natural questions" about the Iranian offer, he said, but declined to say what the questions were.

"I have come to London," Harriman told newsmen, "as there seem to be some questions on which the British government wanted clarification from the Iranian government. I felt it would be easier to personally discuss them than by telegram."

British officials have indicated that, before accepting Iran's offer to talk, they want assurances that British oil field workers will be freed of "interference" from Iranian officials.

Britain has protested verbally that Britons in the oil fields have been harassed by Iranian officials seeking to nationalize the giant oil installations.

Before taking off from Tehran, Harriman had last minute consultations with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and the Shah.

He was accompanied on the flight in a U. S. Air Force Constellation by Sir Francis Shepherd, British ambassador to Iran, who said:

"I am quite happy with the work done by Mr. Harriman. He has been admirable."

The party, which included independent oil consultant Walter Levy and William Rountree, a state department official, was met by U. S. Ambassador Walter S. Gifford and British foreign office officials.

Negro Chauffeur Awarded Estate

Los Angeles, July 27 — (AP) — Allan Lee Woods, 30-year-old Negro chauffeur, has been awarded the $10,000 estate of his white wife, Mrs. Norton Woods.

Mrs. Norton and Woods were married Jan. 14, 1949, and she died four months later. The county clerk's office refused to issue a marriage license until she was given a mental test.

Dr. Victor Parkin, who made the examination, testified that Mrs. Woods was most totally paralyzed, required Woods' constant personal attention, and said she felt he should be her husband.

Dr. Parkin testified that Mrs. Woods told him she had promised Woods all she owned.

Superior Judge John C. Clark ruled that Woods should receive the estate.

Buffer Zone Brings Peace Talks Clash

U. N. Advance Headquarters, Korea, July 28 — (AP) — United Nations and Communist cease-fire teams clashed head-on today over the thorny problem of a military buffer zone across the Korean peninsula.

Gen. Nam Il, chief Red envoy, stated the Red position "with more force and nerve than on any previous occasion," an eye-witness said.

But at the end of two hours and 25 minutes, both sides held stubbornly to their earlier positions.

The Reds want the buffer line along the 38th parallel. The U. N. Allies want it along the present battle lines.

Air Force Brig. Gen. William P. Nichols, who attended today's three sessions, said there was no indication of an area of agreement.

Both sides refused to budge. A heavy rain hammered down on the former Knesson restaurant as the grim negotiators faced each other across the greentopped conference table.

The atmosphere in the room was officially described as "cool military formality."

The phrase was not elaborated, but it recalled a description of the first meeting of liaison officers in the same room July 8.

Col. Andrew Kinney said the tone of that first meeting was "military courtesy — a cold way of not being exactly hostile."

Nucola said the positions of the two sides today were "reasonably clearcut, but there is a considerable difference between the positions."

Concerning Nam, Nucola said, "I wouldn't say he was belligerent, but he certainly was forceful."

The delegates presumably will return to the knotty question in tomorrow's meeting — the one scheduled to start at 11 a. m. EST, Saturday.

There was no hint today that either side was prepared to give ground, or offer a compromise. Such a move may come later in

Three Women Rounded Up in Red Raids

San Francisco, July 28 — (AP) — Three women arrested here in an FBI roundup of California Communist leaders remained at liberty this morning, but were ordered behind bars unless they raised additional bail.

Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman yesterday set $50,000 as bail for each of the three women and four men arrested here. That lowered the bail for the men, who had been held in lieu of $75,000. Two of the women, however, had been admitted to $2,500 bail and the third to $7,500. They contended the increased amount was "out-rageous."

Judge Goodman gave them an 11 a.m. date to raise it.

In addition to the seven persons arrested here, five were held in Los Angeles and New York.

The justice department officials said they will ask indictments on all 12 in Los Angeles of charges of plotting to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

In increasing the bail for the three women, Judge Goodman said the charges call for "substantial" bail and he could see no reason for the women to have a different amount than the men.

The three women arrested in San Francisco are Mrs. Loretta Stack, former state party organ; O'Connor Yates, state party secretary; and Bernadette Doyle, San Francisco organizer.

The four men are Ernest Fox, waterfront union organizer; Carl Rude Lambert, chairman of the party's district 13 security review section; Albert Jason Lima, a regional party chairman; and William Schneiderman, who the justice department says is head of the party's committee to take over leadership from the 11 top Communists recently convicted of conspiracy, is in jail in lieu of $100,000 bail in New York.

Also a California party leader, he is to go before a U. S. commissioner August 8 for possible removal to California.

Two men and two women arrested Thursday are in jail in Los Angeles. Their bail was set at $75,000 each and a federal judge there said he won't hear pleas to lower it until Tuesday.

In a statement issued to the press today, the three San Francisco women said:

"Just as the war in Korea is a rich man's war and a poor man's fight, so the bail set today is a rich man's bail and a poor man's jail."

Senators Undecided on Boyle

Washington, July 28 — (AP) — A Republican and a Democrat, both members of a senate investigating group, disagreed today over whether William M. Boyle, r., and E. Merl Young should be called for questioning about a government loan to a St. Louis company.

Boyle is chairman of the Democratic national committee, while Young was a central figure in a probe of alleged favoritism and influence in the granting of Reconstruction Finance corporation (RFC) loans.

Both have been linked with an RFC loan of $505,000 to the American Lithofold company of St. Louis, approved in 1949, but Boyle has denied having anything to do with the negotiations.

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) said Boyle "just came" before a senate banking subcommittee which charged in a report last February that outside influences with White House connections swayed RFC loan decisions.

But Senator Frear (D-Del.), another member of the subcommittee, told a reporter he was confident that W. Stuart Symington, the new administrator of the huge government lending agency, would make any necessary investigation and "lay the chips on the table."

Since the subcommittee's investi-

was so effective that the Chinese Communists were driven back in confusion, losing over 100,000 men and suffering 10,000 prisoners. This was their most disastrous defeat.

"They were hanging on the ropes."

"Acting in good faith, the U. N. (after cease fire talks were proposed) halted the advance."

When in position to achieve even greater success.

"The picture since then has been one of constant and continuous (Communist) buildup behind screening forces."

"There has been continuous and aggressive action all along the line."

"The enemy has moved south through Korea a far greater quantity of supplies than he needs to support forces during negotiations."

"Fresh Chinese Communist units and thousands of individual replacements have moved in."

"All evidence points to a re-negation, the RFC's five-man board of directors has been abolished and the agency has been placed under Symington's direction.

Frear said that in view of this changed set-up he did not think the senators need pursue their investigation.

Capehart contended, however, that the subcommittee had "a responsibility" to call both Boyle and Young to testify about the RFC loan to the St. Louis company.

Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) was not available for comment.

In the senate yesterday, Senator Williams (R-Ind.) said that Young telephoned O. R. Croft, assistant manager of the St. Louis RFC of- fice, in 1948 and expressed interest in the Lithofold company's loan application.

Young also told Prof. Williams related that "the Democratic national committee was very much interested in the loan and urged that something be done about it."

Williams said that James P. Finnegan, former St. Louis collector of internal revenue, and a friend of Boyle, made "very energetic efforts" in behalf of the loan.

Testimony May Be Double at Aid Hearing

Washington, July 28 — Joe Keying between two senate committees threatened today to force double testimony by top government officials on the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the senate armed services committee told a reporter he had been unable to make any satisfactory arrangements for his group to sit in on foreign relations committee hearings on the bill.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the latter group said armed services members can sit in, but indicated they can't ask questions or vote. None showed up yesterday.

As a result, Russell said that when the foreign relations group concludes testimony, he will move that the measure then be referred to his committee.

He conceded this will delay senate action on the program and force return testimony by such witnesses as Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Marshall and the top military brass.

"Our committee has heard disturbing reports that some equipment in very short supply for our own forces would be delivered in very considerable quantities to Europe under this bill," Russell said.

He said the armed services group wants to know just which countries will get arms and what kind, since the distribution of equipment abroad "will affect our omination, although they realize they haven't much chance of doing that if he decides to seek a new term.

Mr. Truman isn't saying what his plans are, but if he gets involved say privately they would rather see their states go Republican than to help him get re-elected.

The Dixie leaders cite the fact that besides losing Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, Mr. Truman failed to win a majority vote in Virginia, Florida and Tennessee in 1948.

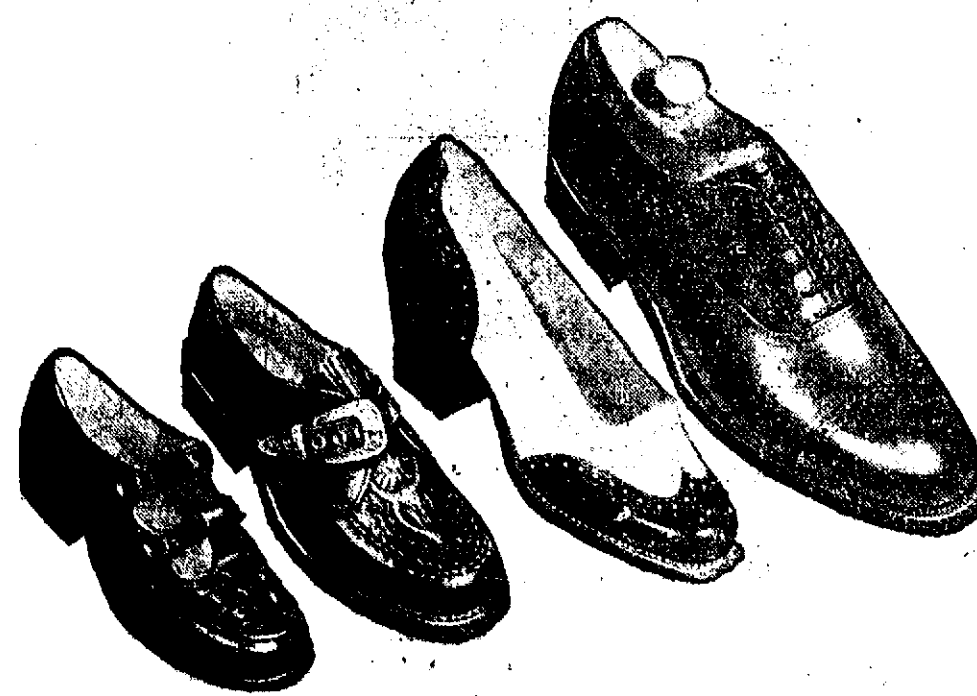

With the likelihood there may be no states rights ticket to divide the vote in 1952, they think some of the southern states — along with border areas — might go Republican and thus help turn the tide in any close election.

McCarthy Says He Will Tell Names of 29

Washington, July 26 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy said today it appears to him he has no choice but to name the 29 persons he contends are under investigation for loyalty within the state department.

Commenting on the department's brusque rejection of his demand for assurance that the 29 persons do not have access to state secrets, McCarthy told a reporter:

"I am inclined to think I have no choice but to name them unless the state department completely reverses its stand. The situation is too dangerous not to do so."

Assailing the senator's threats to name the 29 as a "political stratagem," the department said yesterday that some of the persons on McCarthy's list are not even in the department, some have been cleared, and all employees are barred from secret papers if the department finds that "such access might constitute a danger to the security of the United States."

McCarthy on Monday had written Secretary of State Acheson he would name the 29 persons he said face loyalty checks unless he received assurance they did not have access to secret papers.

He has named only two of them: Ambassador Philip Jessup and John Carter Vincent, a career diplomat.

Without confirming that any of the 29 are under loyalty investigation, Deputy Undersecretary Carlisle Humelsine replied yesterday that under a presidential order the department is barred from making public any reports or records bearing on loyalty cases.

"Your indiscriminate lumping of names and the threat to make them public is tantamount to holding hostage the reputations and rights of those employees who have been or may be cleared of the allegations against them."

He said also that all department officials undergo complete checks, that questions as to loyalty of any employee bring full FBI checks, and that the department's loyalty review board has never been reversed by the top civil service loyalty board which reviews its findings.

"We will continue to operate this program in the same straightforward manner in the future," he continued confiding now we are taking every reasonable step to secure a completely loyal and trustworthy group of employees.

"We will not compromise our legal and ethical responsibilities under pressure of political stratagem or threat."

McCarthy contended that Humelsine's letter was "deliberately calculated to mislead." He said of all the departmental loyalty boards, that in the state department "is the only one which has never found a single individual unfit for government service because of Communist activities."

McCarthy was not certain when he would make his next move. He said he may name the 29 "I'll give a summary of the charges against the 29 and name them" — either this week or next.

Death Toll in State Now 18

By The Associated Press
The violent death toll in Arkansas this week stood at 13 Saturday. Donald Gene Clark, 19, of Harrison, Ark.

Clark's car plunged off the highway and crashed into the embankment of a railroad overpass. Hot Spring County Prosecutor Joe McCoy said Clark's car hit the embankment 85 feet from the point it left the highway. His companion, Miss Sammie Dox, 19, also of Harrison, was injured seriously.

A Mexican farm laborer was killed by lightning near Proctor Friday. He was Zamora Lopez Orlando.

Two-year-old Harry Allen Ramsey drowned in a pit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Ramsey of Laws on Union county, Friday.

Realizing the importance of fresh accessories in keeping her wardrobe bright and new-looking, this young woman has raided her own and her husband's handkerchief boxes for materials. For evening (upper left) she converts a man's white linen handkerchief into a violet-dotted fichu; and, to top a sheath dress, gathers leaf-patterned handkerchiefs (lower left) onto a velvet ribbon to form a capelet. A silk hanky and a ribbon combine to form a perky neck bow (center left); and a man's white handkerchief, folded and teamed with a red velvet rose, adds importance to a suit. A lace evening handkerchief is the basis for glamorous apron (upper right); and four bandanas are used to make casual apron (lower right).

To Question Ex-Wife of Eisler

Washington, July 28 — (AP) — The senate's internal security subcommittee will turn next to Hede Massing, former wife of Gerhardt Eisler, in its search for any subversive influences on the nation's Far Eastern policy.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) described Mrs. Massing as an ex-Communist who "operated on the highest level and who was in the know."

A witness in the perjury trial of Alger Hiss, Mrs. Massing already has testified at closed-door sessions of the subcommittee. McCarran told reporters she was "most cooperative and helpful."

She has been called to appear at a public hearing next Tuesday. Eisler, her former husband, was described in a committee statement as "an international representative of the Communist party in this country for several years."

He was under bond when he fled this country on a Polish ship. Later he turned up as an official in Soviet-controlled East Germany.

McCarran said that Mrs. Massing's testimony will deal with the Institute of Pacific Relations IPR, and other more general matters.

At the subcommittee's first two hearings, much of the testimony revolved around the affairs of the IPR and various persons who are or have been connected with it. One of the witnesses was Edward C. Carter of New York, an IPR trustee, and the other was Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist, who was brought here from a New York jail cell where he is serving 90 days for contempt of court.

The subcommittee seized thousands of the Institute's documents last February and sifted through them before starting the present series of hearings.

McCarran said at the outset that the testimony of ex-Communists would be used "to supplement the evidence found in the files."

Although Mrs. Massing was a witness in the trial of Hiss, former state department official who was convicted of perjury for denying he gave department documents to a pre-war Soviet spy courier, McCarran said he thought her testimony next Tuesday would be the first for her before a public congressional hearing.

Hiss' name has cropped up several times in the investigation of McCarran's subcommittee.

DOROTHY DIX Unwanted Child

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young widow whose husband was killed in an accident a year and a half ago. I have a daughter, Sally 7 years old and we have been living with my parents. For the past eight months I have been going with a nice young man who wants to marry me but he does not want my little girl. He is willing for me to have her week-ends, but that is all. I have an income and a good home with mother and dad, but I do get lonely for a companion.

Answer: Don't let loneliness blind you to your duties as a mother. Sally is your first responsibility, her welfare must be your prime consideration. Happiness will never be bought at her expense. Sacrificing the child to a fiancé's whims will merit nothing but misery and no man worthy of your love would demand so much.

When the first requisites of a good husband—kindness, consideration, unselfishness—are so lacking in a fiancé certain it is that you have picked the wrong man. Wait for a man who will be glad to accept the responsibility of your little girl, who will, in fact be unable to resist her charms.

Your Conscience Will Hurt

Should you accede to your friend's wishes and leave Sally to marry him, you would never have an easy moment with your own conscience. Your life would be a constant yearning for the child and you would never cease reproaching yourself for her abandonment. You are fortunate to have so many material advantages in life. Don't be spoiled by them and expect all life to be a bed of roses. Until the right man comes along for you, a certain amount of loneliness will be the thorn, but the love and companionship of your daughter should be ample compensation.

Dear Miss Dix: Until two months ago my husband was devoted to me. Then he met a young girl of 19 and fell in love with her. He is 30. He assures me he loves me too, and doesn't want his freedom. I am expecting a baby in three months, and this girl thinks my husband will divorce me after the baby is born. He has begged me to stick to him until he gets over this affair but I am afraid it might get more serious.

R. F.

Answer: Your husband is in the throes of an infatuation that will probably be short as it was stormy. He doesn't show much consideration in subjecting you to such emotional strain you are already undergoing so much, but it's fortunate for the husband race that a woman's strength can uphold man's weakness.

Your husband is a weak character, and it is your fortune that will ultimately bring a united family through this crisis. They'll be quite a few headaches before the happy end, but stick with your husband and he'll come to his senses.

Dear Dorothy Dix: At 25 am I too old to wear padal-pushers or shorts. My husband likes them on me because I am of small build—5 feet 5 inches tall, weight 125 pounds. I bought them for special occasions such as hiking or driving, but my mother thinks they are unsuitable and wants me to exchange them for a pretty sundress.

PAT

Answer: The suitability of wearing apparel depends more on circumstances than on age. A young looking woman of 25 with a nice figure will look better in informal clothing than a teen-ager with a heavy-build. If you and your husband like this type of clothing, there's no reason why you should shun it.

But please note—there are times and places where such things are in order and times when they are not. I would hesitate to mention the fact that shorts, halter suits and the like are not the proper thing for church, except that I have seen so many costumes of this kind at services. Pick the occasion wear the proper accessories (rather, don't wear accessories such as jewelry, and enjoy your pedal-pushers.

Paper Hearing May Be Closed Tonight

Little Rock, July 28 — (AP) — The three-week-old national labor relations board hearing of unfair labor charges against the Arkansas Gazette may be completed tonight.

Gazette Attorney Tom M. Davis of Houston, Tex., said he plans to call only one additional witness. That will be Edward L. Wright of Little Rock, also an attorney for the Gazette.

Wright will go on the stand when NLRB lawyers complete cross examination of Hugh B. Patterson Jr., Gazette publisher, who gave direct testimony yesterday and last night.

A Sunday session is planned if the hearing is not completed tonight. Night sessions started Thursday in an effort to complete the hearing before Monday, when some of the attorneys will be tied up in other legal matters.

Patterson said yesterday he specifically instructed department heads not to interfere with union activity among Gazette employees. He said the first time he knew of union activity among news room employees was on Aug. 1, 1949. This he said, was when he received notice that the CIO American Newspaper Guild claimed it represented the news workers, as a bargaining agent.

He said he asked for an NLRB supervised election to determine if the guild actually did represent a majority of the news employees as it claimed.

Patterson said he never had attempted to influence anyone's vote in the election, conducted Sept. 2, 1949. He added that he had asked several employees if they had voted. He said he was interested in only having all those eligible to vote.

The publisher denied that he ever had described leadership of the guild as "communist." He added that his conservation of signing of non-communist oaths by labor officials apparently had been misunderstood.

Fluoridation of Water Recommended

Little Rock, July 28 — (AP) — The Arkansas board of health was recommended fluoridation of public water supplies.

This was announced here yesterday by Dr. J. T. Harrison, state health director. The chemical was added to water to help prevent tooth decay.

Little Rock now is the only city in Arkansas that has adopted such a program.

The Weather Bureau of the United States has 2500 observing stations in the western states.

'Mac' Changes Mind About Fading Away

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 26 — (AP) — General MacArthur apparently has changed his mind about just fading away, as he told congress he would when he addressed it last April.

Last night, in a talk to the MacArthur legislative committee in Boston, he said: "I shall raise my voice as loud and as often as I believe it to be in the interest of the American people."

"I shall dedicate all of my energies to restoring to American life those immutable principles and ideals which your forebears and mine handed down to us in sacred trust."

He made a blazing attack on the Truman administration which stripped him of his command in the Korean war. Although he told the legislators he was talking with "dispassionate objectivity and without prejudice," his attack could hardly fail to please the Republicans.

The criticism of the Truman administration followed the line taken by many Republican critics, accusing it of inaction and spending too much and not having a foreign policy.

And in one place, he employed almost the identical word used by Senator Taft of Ohio, most frequently mentioned as the Republican presidential candidate in 1948.

Since the Korean war began, he said, the Truman administration has described the Korean war as "useless." Last night the general spoke of the "uselessness" of the Korean war.

When he first returned here last spring and later in June, in five speeches in Texas, the general outlined himself to condemning the Truman foreign policy and handling of the Korean fighting, urging his own solution for the war, a solution with which the joint chiefs of staff disagreed.

But in his sixth Texas speech on June 18 the general suddenly shifted his attack and condemned the administration's domestic policies, too, thus getting into the field of economics.

So his attack on the Truman administration last night across the board — on all fronts, foreign and domestic — was the second such criticism he had offered.

He pointed in his speech to the fact that the joint chiefs of staff were afraid to say what they really thought because of the fear of reprisal from the White House.

It is difficult to nail down precisely what the general had in mind in many parts of his speech, but in almost all of it he made charges without naming names.

For example, he spoke of the "insidious forces working from within which already have so drastically altered the character of our free institutions." Those "insidious forces," he said, "infiltrated the positions of public trust and responsibility — into journalism, the press, the radio and the schools."

Midway in his speech he again attacked his conduct as commander in chief of the United Nations Command forces and blasted the Truman reasons for firing him.

And he criticized the amount of money the country is giving to the United Nations but added: "We should have the power to alleviate the suffering and hardship of other peoples and to support their efforts to preserve their freedom from the assault of Com-

Costello Is Out on Bail Pending Trial

New York, July 26 — (AP) — Frank Costello, reputed king of the underworld, was free on $5,000 bail today after pleading innocent to charges of contempt of the United States Senate.

Imprisoned gamblers Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson, also indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury for allegedly defying senate crime probes will be arraigned today or tomorrow.

After the jury handed up the indictments, Costello hopped a subway to the federal courthouse to give himself up before Federal Judge John F. X. McGohery.

Fingerprinted in the U. S. marshal's office, Costello, who admitted he served several months in prison in 1917 for illegally carrying a gun, asked, "What have they got against me now?"

The indictments against the trio of underworld characters resulted from their refusal to answer questions put to them by the senate crime committee during its televised hearings here last March.

Costello was named in a nine-count indictment. Adonis is 16 and Erickson is 74. The top penalty on each count is one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The 60-year-old Costello spent 40 minutes in a cell before a bond was arranged and he was released in the custody of his attorney, George Wolf.

As they left the federal building, the big-time gambler refused to talk to newsmen but Wolf said:

"He, Costello is worried about the heat. I'm talking about the temperature, not the indictment."

Costello, the 49-year-old Adonis and the 54-year-old Erickson all balked at answering numerous questions asked by the crime committee members. Each maintained silence on certain queries on the grounds that they might tend to incriminate themselves.

Adonis now is serving two to three years in a New Jersey prison on gambling charges. Erickson, who admitted heading a $12,500,000-a-year bookie ring, is serving a two year gambling sentence on Rikers Island penitentiary here.

The senate committee called Costello the kingpin of a nationwide crime syndicate. Costello denied this, although admitting he has been a gambler and bootlegger. Linked with powerful political figures in New York City, Costello contends he couldn't even fix a traffic ticket.

Adonis, known for years as an associate of Costello and Erickson, also has been mentioned in connection with Brooklyn's defunct Murder, Inc., the murder-for-hire mob.

Bootlegger Pays for Slaying

McAlester, Okla., July 27 — (AP) — Jearrell Bud Hatchcock, a 38-year-old Oklahoma City bootlegger died in Oklahoma's electric chair early today for the pistol slaying of an elderly nightwatchman 18 months ago.

A 2300-volt shock applied by Executioner M. E. McEllett ended the convicted murderer's life at 12:05 a. m., two minutes after he walked a dozen steps from his cell to the chair.

The physician pronounced Hatchcock dead at 12:07 a. m. An Oklahoma City district court jury found the pint-sized gunman guilty of firing six shots into the body of M. L. Beert Shaffer, 67, the night of Feb. 1, 1950.

The execution was witnessed by the victim's brother, Clarence Shaffer, 72.

BACK IT UP!

In my campaign, I have pledged myself only to the Peoples' Progress. Such Progress MUST stem from more jobs paying a living wage. Jobs pay Money — Money makes Business — Business makes a Town.

To Fulfill a Pledge of a Peoples' Progress, a Man Needs Three Things:

- 1 — Recognition of the problem — Hope's is only economic.
- 2 — A desire to do something about it — I have pledged myself to that.
- 3 — The "know-how" which experience teaches — you be the judge.

As one interested in the Peoples' Progress, I have, in the past, been instrumental in presenting to the people the following opportunities:

1—W. SHANHOUSE SONS, INC.

This new Hope industry is now one of our largest, both in the number of jobs and in weekly payroll.

2—SPG INDUSTRY

On the former proving ground site, six new industries are now providing new jobs and new payrolls to the community.

3—MEYERS BAKERY

Once scheduled to move from Hope, this plant has now increased its payroll and has constructed new quarters here.

4—TEMPLE COTTON OIL CO.

Once scheduled to close, this industry is now providing new jobs, and a new income to our farm population.

5—PINE TREE PLANTING

Last year, in Hempstead County, over 1,000,000 pine seedlings were planted, assuring a continuance of many of our industrial payrolls.

Lets not vote on a negative basis. Vote for what experience has PROVEN a man to be — not what rumor would deceive you into believing.
